

75% threshold looks weird because of farmers doing well at low C values

We can trim those values but then we're basically shaping the data to our story

